Edinburgh's Vision for Inclusion

Inclusion should be at the heart of everything we do in our schools and learning communities. We're committed to recognising diversity, minimising exclusion and supporting our children and young people to achieve their full potential.

A recent improvement project involving experts from across Scotland found that we have much to celebrate in our vision and approach, but also made recommendations for improvement.

We want your views on how we can make these improvements.

There are two ways you can share your views and get involved…

1. Attend a Vision for Inclusion locality or online event

At these events you will hear about the findings of the improvement project, share examples of good practice and take part in discussions on how to take forward recommendations.
